

We look forward to welcoming you to SDU in Odense! Getting here ...

By plane

The best route is to fly to Copenhagen. Copenhagen Airport, the biggest airport in Denmark, is an international airport with many flights arriving from and departing to all regions of the world. For further information about the airport, go to Copenhagen Airport.

There is also an airport in Billund (to the west of Odense, on Jutland) with less-frequent bus-train connections to Odense.

Trains to Odense

Trains depart from Copenhagen Airport. Some go directly to Odense some go to Copenhagen Central Station (København H) where it is necessary to change to another chain in order to go to Odense. All westbound trains from the airport stop at Copenhagen Central Station (eastbound trains go to Sweden, so check the direction carefully!). Tickets must be bought before boarding the train. Trains that run from Copenhagen Airport to Odense train station run more or less hourly; schedules are available and tickets can be bought at Rejseplanen.dk. English and German versions are available. There are also ticket offices/vending machines at the airport and at train stations.

Odense has one main train station (“Odense St.” or also called “Odense Banegård Center - OBC”) which has connections to Copenhagen, Aarhus, and Flensburg (Germany).

Local transport in Odense

Letbanen (the tram) runs between Odense train station (OBC) and the university (SDU). When going to SDU you take the tram towards Hjallesø. When going from SDU to Odense train station, you take the tram towards Tarup.

If you are coming to Odense by train (on an ordinary ticket and directly), you can use your train ticket as tram fare. Otherwise, the ticket price is 15 DKK. You purchase your ticket to the tram here via your mobile.

Taxis cost about 150 DKK (about € 20). Ask the driver to drop you off at Entrance V, via Fionivej and by P8. Taxis can be found at the train station or booked by phone: +45 66 15 44 15 or +45 66 12 27 12.

Car: Highway E20 connects Europe with Odense.
